The employee evaluation tool should be used to address employee performance over the past season. The specific standards measure initiative, dependability, leadership, and execution of responsibilities.
3. During the summer season, Program Coordinators should conduct mid-season evaluations every second week of the summer to give Program Coordinators adequate time to monitor employee performance and express concerns to staff and for program staff to address the concerns and build on areas of improvement. Beyond the initial evaluation, hours should be adjusted to reward staff who are performing well, but should not be reduced before expressing and documenting concerns to the staff member about the dissatisfactory performance.
4. Just as the performance evaluation tool should be used to provide feedback and room for improvement, it should also be used to provide commendation and positive feedback.
5. Completed evaluations should be signed by the evaluator and the employee and kept on file with the Recreation Director.
